

Legislators
And Business
Gearing For Post-War Era

By STERLING F. GREEN
Washington, Aug. 27 (AP)—The tightening problem of millions of jobless workers stirred legislators and businessmen to action today. An influential business group urged the government immediately to help pay the fare of stranded war workers to new jobs. This body, the research committee of the nationwide C.E.D.—Committee for Economic Development—also recommended that most states increase their payments to the unemployed. Early-bird legislators tackled the same issue. But the big government push toward the ways of peace made this news:

1. The Office of War Information wants to go out of business within 90 days. Office of Censorship already is gone. The State Department may take over U. S. publicity abroad.

More Civilian Goods
2. The public will begin to see electric toasters, washers, refrigerators and ranges this fall, with vacuum cleaners "fairly plentiful" by Christmas. But—

3. Sellers of these new goods headed into a full-scale rumput with OPA. They say OPA's policy on retail price ceilings—the same as in 1942 or very little higher—is too low. They'll meet here for a fight tomorrow.

Good news rolled in from the production front. New authoritative reports included:

Clothing: Plenty of women's and children's dresses, slips, blouses, nightgowns, panties and pajamas by November. Good, but not rosy, prospects for men's suits. (Returning servicemen will drain supplies for awhile.)

Household Goods: Electrical appliances—washing machines, toasters, ranges, waffle irons and the like—will begin to appear this fall. But they will remain fairly scarce till spring.

Draft Compromise
And the draft came back into the news as the House Military Committee met to decide what if anything to do about it. At least two lawmakers, Representatives Kilday, (D-Tex.), and Shafer, (R-Mich.), told newsmen they favor an immediate end to inductions of 18- and 19-year-olds. Others want to halt the draft entirely, but a compromise may be sought.

If business expands boldly and the government acts quickly—said the C.E.D. report—"large scale unemployment is not inevitable, (it) can be prevented."

OWI took the spotlight in the government's own reconversion. President Truman is expected to act fairly soon on a request from Elmer Davis' agency that it be liquidated.

OWI and state want the government to maintain an official U. S. information service overseas. The state department might take over some of OWI's overseas branch, which has 60 foreign outposts. The Army could absorb the OWI people now working with the occupation forces.

May Curb OWI
The smaller domestic branch of OWI may simply be killed off. It issues and "clears" information from 25 or more war agencies. For this purpose, it runs Washington's biggest pressroom for the use of newspaper, radio and trade journal reporters.

"Clearance" means eliminating conflicts from the reports and speeches of agencies and officials. The question of pricing the new—but long-scarce—durable goods, like washing machines—pumped up one of the bitterest government-business battles in a long time.

J. R. STREVIG
IN NEW OFFICE

Chaplain John R. Strevig has recently been transferred to the Office of the Chief of Chaplains in Washington, D. C. A veteran of the African and Italian campaigns, through which he served with the First Armored Division, Chaplain Strevig returned to this country in 1944 after two and a half years of overseas service. Prior to his present Washington assignment, he was chaplain of the Prisoner of War Camp at McLean, Texas. In his work there among the three thousand German prisoners, he was assisted by two German chaplains, one a Protestant, the other a Catholic.

A graduate of Gettysburg college and seminary, Chaplain Strevig held pastorates in Lutheran churches in St. Thomas, East Berlin and in the Calvary Lutheran church, Baltimore. It was from the pastorate of this last church that he left to accept a commission as a chaplain in the Army shortly before Pearl Harbor.

Chaplain Strevig is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Strevig, former residents of Baltimore, who are now living near Hanover. His wife and daughter are making their home in the Tipton Apartments, 167 East Middle street.

A. S. STANTON
IS KILLED IN ACTION ABROAD

Pfc. Albert Stewart Stanton, 30, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Stanton, Breckenridge street, was killed in action in the Philippines, according to a War department telegram received at noon today by the soldier's wife.

Stanton, a veteran of action in Italy, was serving with an Engineers' outfit. He has been in service for two years, and was sent to the Italian theatre of war May 17, 1944.

After the collapse of Italy and Germany Stanton was scheduled for return to the States and a furlough but a short time ago he informed his family that he was being deployed to the Pacific theatre of operations.

About ten days ago the soldier wrote his mother from Manila advising her that he had arrived in the Philippine capital. His family was not aware that he was in action at the time.

The War department telegram did not contain any details other than to advise the young widow that her husband had been killed in action.

Stanton was married twice and has three children, Gloria, aged 9, Albert, Jr., aged 8, and Beverly Anne, aged 8 months. His wife and children have been residing with his parents here.

Prior to entering service Stanton was employed at the Hotel Gettysburg and later in a war plant.

MILITARY FETE

Adams county's Troop C of the Pennsylvania State Guard and their guests enjoyed their first annual military picnic at the South Mountain fair grounds Sunday afternoon and evening. The crowd was estimated at 500 persons.

The achievements and record of the county troop were praised by Judge W. C. Sheely who told the guardsmen "the whole county is proud of you."

Judge Sheely shared the platform with Chaplain (Major) George H. Berkheimer, a veteran of three years of service in the Pacific, and Lt. Col. Harry Banzhoff, commander of the First Cavalry Squadron of the Guard of which the Adams county troop is a part.

Need for Guard
The increasing importance of the State Guard was indicated by Colonel Banzhoff who pointed out that as the federal government relaxes its special wartime powers, there falls upon each state an increasing burden for handling its own problems. He said the State Guard will be trained and ready to serve the state in emergencies until the return from the Army of the National Guard.

Major Berkheimer likened the State Guard to a comparable organization in Australia that stood ready to repel the expected Japanese invasion while the Australian armed forces fought in North Africa and at Singapore. He spoke also of life, customs and the political organization of Australia where he served so long with the Army.

Formal Retreat
Guardsmen and their guests who included troopers from Harrisburg and Hanover units of the Guard arrived at the park early in the afternoon for a program of games and contests for all. Prizes were awarded to winners. The speaking program began about 4 o'clock and there was special accompaniment by Miss Doris Rudisill, Gettysburg R. 1.

Capt. Henry Hartman

Capt. Henry M. Hartman, Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. H. M. Hartman, 231 Springs avenue, and Pfc. Kenneth H. Brandt, Gardner R. 1, have received their discharge from the army at Indiantown Gap.

Those arriving at Indiantown for redeployment included CWO Richard G. E. Cline, Bendersville; Capt. James A. Brimmon, York Springs; S/Sgt. Roy C. McGlaughlin, 46 Railroad street; T/4 Edward S. YOUTH ON TRIAL
ON HIT AND RUN
DRIVING CHARGE

What promises to be a brief term of court opened this morning with the trial of 17-year-old Edgar G. Houser, Jr., of near New Chester, on a charge of hit and run driving. By noon the testimony had been completed and the attorneys began their final summations to the jury as court reconvened this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

Possibly not more than one other case may come to trial. The case against Philip McCaffrey, Littlestown, on a charge of receiving stolen goods, was called for trial this morning but McCaffrey failed to appear and his bond was forfeited. The court directed that bail be renewed for November court.

Drunken Driving

One drunken driving case probably will be tried if the prosecutor, H. S. Roberts, former Littlestown chief of police now serving with the Red Cross at Fort Meade, can come here to testify. The defendant is G. R. Jacoby, Littlestown. He was in court this morning but had no attorney.

Private George J. Evanko of the state police is the prosecutor in the case against Houser who first was taken into juvenile court but whose case later was transferred to quarter sessions court for trial. He is represented by E. V. Bulleit, Esq.

Commonwealth witnesses testified that Houser's car hit Tim Young, of near Hanover, as he walked up a hill just north of Hanover, on the Carlisle pike the evening of last April 23, pushing his bicycle. Young was knocked down by the impact, according to state testimony; and later was taken to the Hanover hospital by ambulance.

Youth Testifies

Houser admitted having seen Young and said he noticed a slight bump as he passed but thought he had hit a stone or a rough spot in the road. He admitted he did not stop and explained it by saying he saw Young remain erect after Houser had noticed the bump.

Members of the jury are: George Slusser, New Oxford R. D.; Virgil Markey, York Springs R. 2; Melvin J. Kane, Ottomanna R. 1; Casper P. Myers, Gettysburg R. 5; the Rev. Nevin Prantz, Arendtsville; J. Emory Hostetter, Hanover R. 4; Albert Kimple, Gettysburg R. 2; Harold Davis, York Springs R. 1; John B. Doyle, Hanover R. 4; Earl Steinhour, Gettysburg, and John Claybough, Littlestown R. 2.

Charles B. Reaver, Taneytown, signed a plea of "no defense" Saturday noon on a drunken driving charge brought by H. S. Roberts, former Littlestown police chief.

TRAVEL HITS
NEW WAR HIGH

Battlefield travel hit a new high over the week-end when a total of 150 guided trips were made over the battlefield in addition to two bus trips through the park. The National Park office here estimated park visitation for Saturday and Sunday at 7,680 compared with 5,472 for the first week-end of ration-free gasoline.

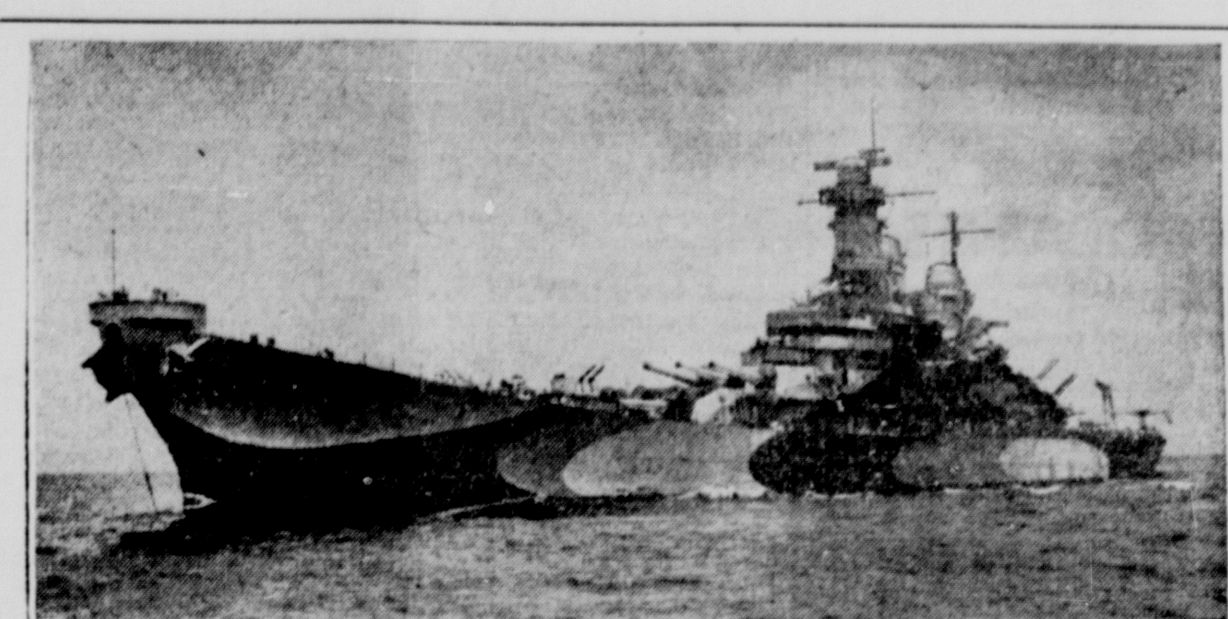

A total of twenty-one states were counted among the motorists who made the guided trips over the field Saturday and Sunday. The group included about 35 from Pennsylvania, nine from Maryland, eight from New York and Ohio, seven from Illinois, four from Virginia, three each from District of Columbia, Florida, Missouri and Michigan, while the remaining states including some as far distant as the west coast were represented by one or two cars each.

There were 114 guided tours over the battlefield August 18 and 19; 96 for the preceding week-end and 82 on the first week-end of the month. State police said the traffic was heavier than for the preceding week-end and service station and restaurant proprietors reported the busiest non-holiday week-end since gasoline restrictions were first placed.

Only one minor traffic mishap was reported on county highways over the week-end.

American And British Naval Forces
Enter Sagami Bay, Near Tokyo, Today

Japs To Surrender On USS Missouri

Minesweepers
Clear Harbor

(By The Associated Press)
Manila, Aug. 27 (AP)—The battleship Missouri led strong American and British naval forces into Sagami bay below Tokyo today. General Douglas MacArthur announced designation of the Eighth Army, commanded by Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger, as among the first forces to occupy the Tokyo area.

"The Eighth will land from transports in the area of initial evacuation September 1," MacArthur informed the Japanese headquarters by radio.

The Fleet's thrust to within 30 miles of Tokyo proved as quiet as a peacetime maneuver in home waters. The final act of surrender will be signed aboard the Missouri in Tokyo bay Sunday (Japan time.)

Surrender
Schedule

(By The Associated Press)
MONDAY, AUG. 27—Third Fleet spearhead anchors in Sagami bay, 24 hours ahead of MacArthur's schedule.

TUESDAY, AUG. 28—Advance fleet units enter Tokyo bay; preparatory air force lands at Atsugi airfield.

THURSDAY, AUG. 30 — Ten thousand marines and sailors begin occupation of Yokosuka naval base; MacArthur lands at Atsugi with first wave of airborne occupation troops.

SATURDAY, SEPT. 1 — Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger's Eighth Army scheduled to begin landings for occupation of Tokyo and Yokohama areas.

SUNDAY, SEPT. 2—Formal surrender ceremonies aboard U. S. Missouri in Tokyo bay.

MONDAY, SEPT. 3—Advance airborne party lands at Kanoya preparatory to occupation of Kyushu island; bypassed island garrisons, including Truk, scheduled to begin surrendering.

The naval entry had been scheduled originally for Sunday but was called off at the last minute by receipt of MacArthur's orders to postpone the occupation plan for 48 hours because of typhoons around Japan.

(It was not explained why the navy delayed only 24 hours in moving into the bay, but the Sagami roadstead, even though 30 miles broad, might conceivably offer some shelter from the weather for smaller vessels.)

Jap Group Meets Fleet

The drama began afresh this morning, fleet correspondents reported, when a party of 21 Japanese, including two emissaries, six interpreters and 13 coastal pilots, met the fleet at sea.

Taken off their tiny destroyer and transferred to the Missouri by the American destroyer Nicholas, the Japanese received detailed instructions concerning the naval occupation even while the Fleet plowed steadily into the bay's entrance.

Admiral Halsey did not see the Japanese, who were given their orders by his chief of staff, Rear Adm. Robert B. Carney. These included minute instructions on how to prepare for the landing Thursday by the newly-designated "Task Force 31" led by Rear Adm. Oscar E. Badger in the cruiser San Diego. Instructions included neutralizing the numerous shore batteries, evacuating troops, dismantling forts and removing mines.

Retrieve Their Samurai Swords

The Japanese then retrieved their samurai swords from the Nicholas, were put back aboard their own vessel, and led the way into Sagami bay.

At least five battleships, 11 cruisers, 26 destroyers and 69 other ships were among the forces entering the bay, although this was by no means all of the great Third Fleet. The battleships mentioned, besides the Missouri, included the Iowa, South Dakota and the British Duke of York and King George V.

Still offshore were 26 carriers, escort carriers and many other ships, which covered the entry by sea and air. Some 1,200 carrier planes droned overhead on guard and contributing to the impressive qualities of the show that drew the Japanese in throngs to the waterfront.

More Surrender Details

Meanwhile MacArthur's headquarters disclosed further details of the surrender program, including orders to Japanese field commanders south of 38 degrees latitude in Korea to surrender to the Americans. This line bisects Korea, with the capital, Keijo, in the American zone. The Russians have occupied points to the north.

MacArthur also ordered the Japanese in the Ryukyus to (Please Turn to Page 3)

OCCUPATION OF JAPAN MAY CAUSE TROUBLE

By DEWITT MACKENZIE (AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

We shall be able to breathe easier when the occupation of Japan is an accomplished fact.

We do not mean to cross our bridges before we come to them, but there is the possibility that our forces may encounter untoward incidents. Nippon is laud to the breaking point in face of the terrible punishment which comes with the first major defeat of her centuries of history.

This is true of the population as a whole, as witness Tokyo broadcasts reporting numerous suicides before the Mikado's palace. The Jap radio may be emphasizing this for propaganda purposes, but there's no reason to doubt that there have been such cases of hara-kiri, and that there will be others.

Danger of Clashes

The Mikado's government has made it quite clear, and more than once, that there is danger of clashes. There's no reason to question the sincerity of the Japanese authorities in this respect, since they have nothing to gain by lying about it. They might lie about other things, but not about that. The way things stand they undoubtedly are quite anxious to see the occupation go off smoothly as the Allies. Japan is soundly beaten, and foolish attacks by fanatical elements on our forces could only mean heavy retribution.

Anyway, if the Allies encounter difficulties, they will be prepared to deal with them, thanks to the obvious precautions which our high command is taking. So, having recognized the possibilities, let's hope that the landings pass off without trouble.

As regards this situation, the Moscow newspaper Pravda calls on the Allied powers "not for one minute to trust the false and cunning maneuvers of the Japanese imperialists." Pravda declares Japan's rulers are preparing for revenge in another war.

Reds Take 3 More Kuriles Islands

London, Aug. 27 (AP) — The Red flag of Soviet Russia waved over three more islands in the Kuriles west of the Aleutians today as Generalissimo Stalin's forces speeded their occupation of Japanese territory and the disarming of enemy troops.

The latest Russian strides were announced last night in Moscow's 18th communique of the Pacific war, which also disclosed that Soviet forces, expanding their hold on the southern half of Sakhalin island, had occupied the port of Rutaka.

The bulletin disclosed that approximately 35,000 more Japanese troops—including six generals—had been rounded up, bringing to 400,000 the total taken prisoner in the last eight days.

The Kurile islands occupied by Soviet forces were identified in the war bulletin as Onnekotan, Shashikotan and Matsawa. The operation was carried out by airborne troops of Gen. Maxim Purkayev's Second Far Eastern Army in conjunction with Pacific Fleet landing parties.

JAPANESE FIND NEW REASON FOR SURRENDERING

(By The Associated Press)

The destructiveness of America's atomic bomb, coupled with Emperor Hirohito's "love of the people," was the real reason for Japan's surrender, Premier Prince Hiroshi-Kuni told the Japanese cabinet and members of the House of Representatives today, according to a Domei news agency dispatch.

One purpose of the forthcoming extraordinary session of the Japanese imperial diet, the Premier declared at today's conference, is "to clarify frankly" the reasons for capitulation.

Japan's radio broadcasts announced postponement of its extraordinary diet session to coincide with surrender delays, and reported a continuing series of other homefront and foreign office changes to adapt the nation to its new role—defeat.

Quit Expansion Unit

The two-day extraordinary session will begin Sept. 4 instead of Sept. 2, Domei news agency said. Also announced was abolition of Japan's greater east Asia ministry—the wartime consolidator of Asiatic conquest. The ministry will be incorporated in the foreign ministry.

Confusion on Japan's homefront "seems to be more complicated than in the front lines," War Minister Sadamu Shimomura said in a Tokyo broadcast today. He emphasized that although he himself was moved to "bitter tears" by surrender, "we must accept this imperial decision."

Some Japanese, he warned, desire to continue the war "even by themselves, or commit suicide, thereby clarifying their loyalty to their country." But the imperial decision, he emphasized, "is based upon a far-sighted policy," and must be followed.

Cruiser Macon Is Commissioned

Philadelphia, Aug. 27 (AP)—The heavy cruiser Macon has become the first of America's maritime weapons for peace.

Her skipper, Capt. Edward E. Pare of San Diego, Calif., told a crowd of 4,500 gathered at the Philadelphia Navy yard yesterday he hoped the vessel would play its role in the cause of peace.

The 13,000-ton cruiser was the first ship to be commissioned since Japan surrendered.

The Macon is the second Naval craft to bear the name of the Georgia city. The first was the dirigible Macon, lost February 12, 1934, during fleet maneuvers off Point Sur, California.

LARGE FORCE PREPARED TO OCCUPY JAPAN

By MURLIN SPENCER Large Force

Enroute to Japan, Aug. 21 (Delayed) (AP)—Ten thousand American and British Marines and blue-jackets, spearheaded by a crack Marine regiment, have been poised within 300 miles of Japan for days awaiting orders to move on and begin the occupation of Nippon's sacred soil.

Backed by Admiral Halsey's Third Fleet and supporting units of the British fleet, the destination of the landing forces was Yokosuka naval base, 39 miles southeast of Tokyo, with its airfield and prisoner of war camp.

Marines who are veterans of many Pacific landings anticipated no trouble but were prepared for anything. They were completely equipped for battle. Tanks, artillery and other instruments of war accompanied them.

No Fraternization

These men have been instructed by their commanding officer to treat the Japanese with proper respect but not to fraternize with them. The Americans are expected to be stern, efficient, business-like.

They were told that what formerly would be souvenir hunting would now be looting. Japanese soldiers who lay down their arms will be held in barracks under their own officers. Probably the first to go ashore will be a veteran regiment of assault Marines.

Troops watching the general northward course painted their landing craft a dark grey and stenciled on bright American flags. Marines cleaned their rifles just as carefully as they did before any of their assault landings.

BULLETINS

Washington, Aug. 27 (AP)—President Truman urged Congress today to continue induction into the armed forces of men from 18 to 25 years, cautioning that the Far East situation still involves "many elements of danger."

At the same time he cautioned Congress against premature attempts to declare the war emergency at an end.

Stockholm, Aug. 27 (AP)—Aftonbladet today quoted German refugees as saying they had heard a Japanese radio broadcast in English that Emperor Hirohito committed hara-kiri when Allied warships steamed into Tokyo bay. The report was not confirmed by monitors who record thousands of words of Japanese broadcasts. NBC in New York broadcast Saturday a "wholly unconfirmed" rumor that Hirohito had committed hara-kiri.

Sagami Bay, Aug. 27 (AP)—A party of Japanese swimmers were sunning themselves on the beaches of peaceful Sagami bay today when the mighty Third Fleet came to anchor within easy eyeshot of the towns of Katase and Chigasaki and the emperor's summer palace at Hayama. They swiftly disappeared.

Melbourne, Australia, Aug. 27 (AP)—Maj. Gen. D. Harrison, liaison officer for the Southeast Asia command, said tonight that identity of Allied prisoners in Thailand, Malaya and French Indochina should be available next week.

London, Aug. 27 (AP)—The Tokyo radio said Chungking troops and U. S. air forces from the China theatre began landing in the Shanghai sector this morning. The landings were made peacefully after prearrangement with the Japanese, the broadcast said.

RUSSIA SIGNS 30-YEAR PACT WITH CHINESE

Chungking, Aug. 27 (AP)—Russia and China were bound today in a 30-year friendship treaty which is designed to block for that period any possible Japanese aggression in Asia and which apparently paves the way for a peaceful settlement of Chungking-Chinese Communist differences.

The pact, terms of which were announced simultaneously by the Chinese and Russian governments last night, provides that Russia will give military supplies and moral support to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist government to the exclusion of the Northern China Communist regime and calls for mutual aid in the event of any Japanese attack.

The treaty also assured the return of Manchuria to the Chinese, with Russia promising to complete withdrawal of her occupation troops—within the next three months.

Signed August 14

The agreement was signed formally in Moscow on August 14 after negotiations conducted by Chinese Prime Minister T. V. Soong and Soviet Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov. Premier Stalin witnessed the signing.

Sun Fo, president of China's legislative Yuan, termed the pact an "epoch-making accomplishment" which he said would guarantee peace in Asia for 30 years.

The agreement provides for its own renewal automatically for "an unlimited period," unless within one year before the expiration date one of the signatories notifies the other that it desires to end the pact.

The principal points of the treaty: 1. Russia to give military supplies and moral support to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's government.

2. Russia to withdraw from Japan's stolen empire of Manchuria within three months of the Japanese surrender.

3. Russia to keep hands off China's internal affairs.

4. The establishment of Dairen in Manchuria as a free port open to all nations but administered by China.

Other Agreements

5. The Manchurian city of Port Arthur to be used jointly as a port and naval base by Russia and China.

6. Russia and China to operate jointly the Chinese eastern and southern Manchuria railroads.

7. China to recognize the independence of Outer Mongolia if the people there indicate by a plebiscite they want independence.

8. Russia to respect Outer Mongolia's political independence and territorial integrity.

9. Russia to avoid interference in internal affairs of Sinkiang province, between Mongolia and Tibet, which embraces Chinese Turkestan.

Doctor To Head Legion Auxiliary

Harrisburg, Aug. 27 (AP)—Dr. Ruth Miller Steese, of Mifflinburg, is the new president of the Pennsylvania American Legion Auxiliary.

Dr. Steese, who succeeded Mrs. Martin Eshelman, Quarryville, defeated Mrs. D. A. Krumrine, State College, and Mrs. Ellis Houseknecht, Hughesville, at 12 district meetings held throughout the state on Saturday.

Vice presidents named were: Eastern district, Mrs. J. Howard McCay, Springfield; central district, Mrs. William Quinn, Forest City, and western district, Mrs. Leonard J. Bradley, Braddock.

Other officers: Mrs. Frank B. Emery, Harrisburg, executive secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Harry W. Klugh, Leechburg, history, and Mrs. Ernie R. Beadle, Shamokin, chaplain.

Twelve hundred carrier planes roared overhead as great American and British battleships anchored two miles offshore under the shadow of towering Fujiyama at 1:30 p. m. (midnight Eastern War Time).

Minesweepers immediately began clearing a path to the Yokosuka naval base, 15 miles away by water and eight miles by land across Miura peninsula from Katase town where the warships lay at rest.

The battleship Iowa came to a stop directly behind the Missouri. Off to the left was the British battleship Duke of York, Adm. Sir. Bruce Fraser's flagship which sank the German battleship Scharnhorst in 1943.

Thousands Line Shore

The victorious fleet was clearly visible to thousands of Japanese along the shore between Katase and Chigasaki.

American and British seamen lined the decks for their first good look at the clearly visible Japanese coastline.

The first units of Halsey's occupation force, under Rear Adm. Oscar C. Badger, entered Tokyo bay through two and a half mile wide Uraga strait, lined with 116 major caliber guns.

Two hours before entering Sagami bay, the Missouri took aboard the Japanese emissaries, headed by Capt. Yoshihiko Takasaki, staff officer of the Yokosuka base, and Capt. Inaho Otami, staff officer of the Tokyo naval department.

Ten thousand marines and picked naval personnel are scheduled to take over Yokosuka, where the battleship Nagato lies, crippled by American carrier pilots five weeks ago.

Halsey Ignores Japs

Halsey did not see the Japanese emissaries, who were turned over to his chief of staff, Rear Adm. Robert B. Carney, whose main task since early in the Solomon campaign has been devising "dirty tricks"—strategy—to play on the Japanese navy and air force.

SHIP THAT JAPS "SUNK" 6 TIMES STILL FIGHTING

Washington, Aug. 27 (AP)—Damaged 15 times in four years of war and "sunk" six times in Japanese propaganda, the aircraft carrier Enterprise still is "the fightingest carrier of the fleet."

The Navy said today in detailing experiences of the "Big E"—only surviving U. S. carrier in the South Pacific in 1942. In those dark days the Enterprise "held the line" despite scars from grievous wounds she received in the battles of the east.

The Japanese, including two officers, 13 pilots and six interpreters, were instructed, among other things: "Any violence or resistance by the Japanese will be held to be a mutinous act against the orders of the Emperor and dealt with in force."

"Coastal defenses must mark all guns with white flags, remove all personnel from three isles in Tokyo bay and from Futaba Saki fort on western Chiba peninsula (eastern side of Tokyo bay)."

"Demilitarize all guns. All weapons, ammunition and military stores must be locked in armories. All nets and camouflage must be removed from ships in the harbor so that they will be recognizable from the air."

Demand 10 Interpreters

"All naval and other personnel except those actually necessary must be withdrawn by 4 a. m. Wednesday (3 p. m. Tuesday, Eastern Standard Time) along with all civilian employees. All personnel must be withdrawn from the island forts without exception."

Ten unarmed English-speaking officers must be at both the seaplane ramp and airbase (at Yokosuka) at 10 a. m. to act as guides and the same number must be at drydock No. 2, Yokosuka. An unarmed, suitable naval officer shall report to Rear Adm. Oscar E. Badger (commander of the special occupation task force) and the commanding marine general (unidentified) and their staffs for duty."

Badger, whose flagship will be the cruiser San Diego for the Yokosuka landings, said the hour depends upon how fast mine-sweepers can clear two and a half-mile wide Uraga strait, the entrance to Tokyo bay, and the ability of the Japanese to carry out fleet orders.

The minesweeping is a tremendous assignment and Badger estimates it will take 36 American minesweepers all night and most of tomorrow to clear the channel.

Once the marines and sailors are ashore they will be plenty busy. More than 8,000 American prisoners of war are believed to be in the Yokosuka area.

ern Solomons and Santa Cruz.

Her latest and most serious brush with disaster came on the morning of last May 4 when a bomb-laden Japanese suicide plane crashed into the flight deck. The explosion blasted the forward elevator more 400 feet into the air, killed 14 and injured another 34. The flight deck buckled.

Mitscher Aboard

Aboard the Enterprise at the time was Vice Admiral Marc A. Mitscher, then commanding the legendary Task Force 58. Less than a week earlier, Mitscher had been forced to transfer his flag from the carrier Bunker Hill when she suffered serious damage from a kamikaze attack. From the Enterprise, he moved again to the Randolph.

The attack occurred as the Enterprise, part of Task Force 58, was helping protect troops on the beach at Okinawa from Japanese air attack. Twice before, during the two months she spent on that mission, the carrier had been forced to withdraw briefly for temporary repairs at a nearby base. The May 14 attack put her out of action.

In her four years of war, the Enterprise's planes and guns shot down 911 Japanese aircraft. Her pilots sank 71 enemy ships and damaged or probably sank another 192. While covering 275,000 miles, she accumulated 18 of 22 possible combat stars for carriers in the Pacific.

On Dec. 7, 1941, and for several months thereafter she was the flagship of Admiral William F. Halsey, Jr., then vice admiral, who dubbed her "the galloping ghost of the Oahu coast." Halsey took her on a defiant foray into the Marshalls, against Wake and Marcus and finally as escort for the Hornet carrying Lieut. Gen. Jimmy Doolittle's Tokyo raiders.

Refugee Author Expires In West

Beverly Hills, Calif., Aug. 27 (AP)—Franz Werfel, refugee author of some 35 books including "The Song of Bernadette," moving novel that became an Academy Award motion picture, died at home last night of a heart ailment. He was 54.

His wife Alma, composer Gustav Mahler's widow, with whom the poet-novelist-playwright-essayist lived to this country before the Nazi terror in 1940, found Werfel slumped to the floor in front of his desk.

Werfel's books included "The Forty Days of Musa Dagh," "The Man Who Conquered Death" and "The Class Reunion."

In 1937 his play, "The Eternal Road," was a Broadway hit. "Jacobowsky and the Colonel," adapted from one of his comedies, had a long run two seasons ago.

Soft-spoken, plump and owl-eyed, Werfel was born in Prague, the son of a wealthy manufacturer.

The district group accepted the invitation of the Chambersburg post to hold the next district session there in November.

The caucus closed with a resolution of thanks to the Lentz post and then the Legionnaires stood briefly in silent reverence for departed comrades, remembering especially William H. Allison, a past commander of Lentz post.

A number of members of the local Legion auxiliary attended the eight-county sessions held in Chambersburg Saturday.

COST OF WAR IS $97 BILLION TO FRENCH NATION

Paris, Aug. 27 (AP)—World War two cost France 4,897,000,000,000 francs ($97,940,000,000 at the official rate of exchange) or 45 per cent of her national wealth, Minister of Justice Pierre Tietgen said today.

The minister estimated that the war had brought about the destruction of 1,785,000 houses, 5,000 bridges, about half of France's railway stations, 300,000 out of 500,000 of the country's railway cars, and "almost all" of France's trucks.

In addition, France lost half of her livestock and three quarters of her agricultural machinery, Tietgen said.

The German occupation costs to the French were placed at 860,000,000,000 francs ($17,200,000,000).

Tietgen said the loss, excluding labor, equalled the average total national income for two years. The national debt now stands at 1,600,000,000,000 francs ($32,000,000,000).

DOLLARS AND SENSE

Sedalia, Mo. (AP)—An exhibitor at the state fair here has been operating all week on a sort of "pay as you exit" plan . . . and he says it pays him, too.

Patrons to his show are admitted free, but on the way out are asked to leave a "silver donation," which caused a customer to opine that it seemed like good psychology.

"Psychology? Nuts!" replied the showman. "This way I don't have to pay any federal amusement tax."

GOLDBRICK

Lawton, Okla. (AP)—A discharged serviceman here is having more than a little bit of trouble getting used to this "soft civilian life."

Standing firmly on his rights as promised by the G. I. Bill, he demanded—and got—his pre-war job back.

But the second day he didn't show up for work. When the boss telephoned him at his home, the ex-soldier said that he didn't want the job, after all. "It was harder than I remembered it," was his explanation.

OFFICIAL END OF WAR IS NOT EXPECTED SOON

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Aug. 27 (AP)—How long—since the Japanese have quit—will the government keep its wartime powers and agencies?

Here's a general answer to that question which you may be asking yourself.

But point No. 1 to remember is this: the war itself has not been declared officially over by Congress or the President and probably won't be for some time.

When President Truman issues his V-J Day proclamation it won't be an official statement that the war has ended.

It is clear Mr. Truman thinks we are still in a period of national emergency. Right after announcing the Japanese surrender August 14 he said we face an emergency as great as that on the day of Pearl Harbor.

The reason: the next six months or year are critical for our future. It is important we make the transition to peace smoothly, trying to keep unemployment and prices down and to ration things still scarce.

To End War Time

Although many of the wartime acts are to run for the duration of the war, that doesn't mean the government will try to use them all till the war is declared over, officially.

Many of them will be wiped out —for all practical use—long before then. For instance: Daylight Saving Time—wartime—is supposed to continue for six months after the war. But Mr. Truman will ask Congress to change this, to turn the clocks back now and return us to Standard Time.

If you're wondering how long it will be before the war officially is declared ended, just remember: in the last war Germany quit November 11, 1918. The war did not end officially till peace with Germany was signed in 1921.

"PULPWOOD is a business with a great peacetime future. The pulp and paper industry hasn't any re-conversion problem. It can start-in today producing the things all the civilians and returning service men are hungry for.

"And before we even get caught up on the back-log orders, the new uses that have developed during the war will be calling for more and more pulpwood.

"Your job is just as sure as any job could be, and if you have any friends getting out of the service or out of war plants, tell them there are plenty of jobs in pulpwood—healthy, outdoor jobs with good pay and as much security as you can expect anywhere."

Just Folks

GOSSIP

Somebody whispered a vicious word. It was gathered up by the first who heard And never questioning, right or wrong, He added another, and passed them along.

Spreading the tattle throughout the town, The next to hear it went up and down, For it's clear the busiest folk will stay To hear what gossips have to say.

Just start off your tale with: "Did you hear?" And you'll have an audience, never fear.

Just whisper of evil: Beyond a doubt, 'Twill be louder than anything praise can shout.

We're a curious lot! Both young and old, The foolish, the wise, the timid, the bold Lend ear to the gossips, though false or true, And seem deaf to the mention of good men do.

Today's Talk

TO APPRECIATE

Each of us falls in much each day, but one of our most common failures is to appreciate. To appreciate those nearest and dearest to us—"for the links so swiftly break"—to appreciate the endless blessings that are an asset to us all—freedom, the sunlight, nature's inexhaustible storehouse, the beauty of the sky by day and the star-studded heavens at night, the free access to books, and the heritage of greatness that belongs to all.

Men and women have died for lack of appreciation; many of them later becoming immortal after being appreciated, but how tragic the neglect!

The very moment that we appreciate beauty, or greatness, there is transferred to us their eternal mantle, giving us kinship to them. We own only as we appreciate. And we work with double will and enjoyment when we know that what we do is being appreciated. Many a fine workman is lost to someone else for lack of appreciation.

A great American painter, who, over the years, had taken most of the major prizes offered at various exhibitions, took his own life because of a lack of appreciation for his later work. Make no mistake about it, appreciation is mamma to the soul.

W. H. Hudson, the naturalist, literally starved his body and soul because of a lack of early appreciation for his writings, so that when he was finally recognized for his unique literary style and unusual knowledge, gathered at first hand over the years, it embittered him and broke his confidence in men, and perhaps even broke his heart. Galsworthy termed him as one of the great writers of the age. Yet he died lonely and neglected.

Wherever you see good work, commend the one who did it. The greater a person is, the more he appreciates appreciation from others. A race horse always goes better after a pat on the nose. So do people, after a pat on the back, or in the region of the heart.

People who fail to appreciate what they have, often wake up to find it gone. Like the single talent, told about in the Bible, that was hid away, it is given to someone else.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "The Receptive Mood."

HURRICANE IS LASHING MANY TEXAS CITIES

Corpus Christi, Texas, Aug. 27 (AP)—A giant tropical hurricane, its powers undiminished by 100-mile-an-hour blows it hurled at this rich industrial and farming area, stood off the central Texas coast today, menacing scores of sea-level communities.

In its possible path lay the wealthy and heavily populated Houston-Galveston region. More than 100 miles up the coast the great disturbance was making itself felt in turbulent weather and rising tides.

An advisory by the New Orleans weather bureau, centered the storm about 50 miles northeast of Corpus Christi or near 28.2 north latitude and 97 west longitude and said it was moving northward or north northeastward three to five miles per hour.

High Tides, Seas

The advisory warned of high tides and heavy seas that threaten the flat coastal country. Already, much of the hug-the-coast highway that leads from Corpus Christi to Houston was reported under water.

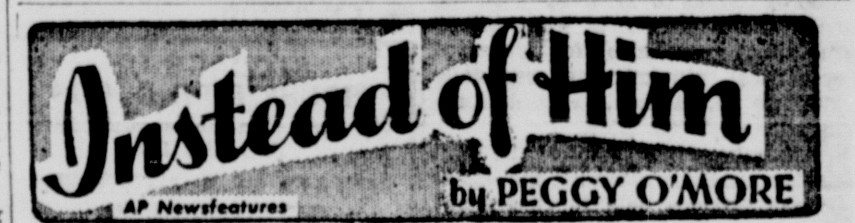

Hurricane winds that topped 100 miles-per-hour in the Corpus Christi area, continued to batter this city and surging tides pushed seawater into coastal towns in the region.

Power and communication lines snapped during the night here and the great winds roared through darkened streets. This was a city protected from high tides by a multi-million-dollar seawall but hundreds of persons found refuge from the force of the blow in public buildings and churches and hotels.

Police Chief L. C. Smith at Corpus Christi said no reports of major damage had been received, but it was impossible to investigate damage during the storm. A school building, where many persons had taken refuge, was unroofed. No one was hurt and the refugees were moved to another building.

Chapter 26

"Now, will you tell me what you mean by my sister's remark?"

"Gladly," Jane sat primly. "Considering your foresight in the purchase of materials on which there'll be a shortage, I'm quite sure your foresight also advises you of an impending shortage in manpower. You'll be needing woman-power."

She ignored his snort and continued, "Mason, the maintenance department checker, is due to leave for service in two or three weeks at the most. Tools, so vitally important now that they can't be readily replaced, should have someone of trust—"

"Oh, now, look here, Miss Grey: you can't be suggesting my sister. Why, she's never in her life shown the slightest aptitude for—"

He paused; then musingly, "Well, not since she was a youngster. I will admit I'd find my tools hidden among her doll rags. Mother insisted upon her playing with dolls—"

Jane sat, her eyebrows raised a little, and let Mark Sheridan muse himself into a corner, and then she stood up again, wondering if the watching girls outside had about decided she was practicing some new exercise.

"I must see about that report, Mr. Sheridan. I was merely interested in the possibility of finding someone who, once acquainted with the facts, would give the company both loyalty and efficiency. And of course that particular department does not come directly under your supervision." She did not add, "Nor mine."

The following morning, she was called into Mark Sheridan's office, soon after he arrived with his sister. There were introductions which were accepted impersonally by Jane, with a certain hostility by Mrs. Eleanor Gresham.

"Will you take Mrs. Gresham to the shop, Miss Grey? Introduce her to the foreman—I've talked to him—and then do whatever else you think necessary."

"Would you care to leave your coat in a locker, Mrs. Gresham?" Jane asked.

"I see no necessity," said the woman stiffly. "I've consented to visiting the shop because my brother insists, but no more."

"Very well, if you'll come with me—"

Silently they walked down the hall, through a door and across a court, then into the clatter and roar of the plant proper.

"Sure pleased to meet you," shouted Jim Burdick above the noise of the shop. "Be right patriotic of you to come in and help us."

"Of course I have had no experience working."

"You can take a car apart 'n' put it together again so its works, can't you? Tell a monkey wrench from a lathe?"

Jane saw an amused light in Eleanor Gresham's eyes.

"Yes, and I can repair a mill pump better than my brother," she conceded.

"Come on, then," And, hoisting his overalls, he led them back to the maintenance room.

Neither Jane nor Eleanor Gresham knew she was there. She was watching, not Mrs. Gresham's face but her hands, hands that fondled tools as Evelyn's mother had fondled plants.

She waited until, with a restless gesture, Eleanor Gresham's hands went up to her hair and, finding a hat impeding their movement, ripped it off and threw it to a bench; then she left quietly.

The rest of the week was uneventful. Eleanor Gresham turned the car keys over to Evelyn when Mark had to call on potential buyers; Eleanor hadn't time to be bothered. Merle, the maintenance clerk, would be leaving in two weeks, and she, Eleanor Gresham, a grass widow with nothing more interesting to look forward to than continued life on a small country place, had become a vital cog in a business that carried her family name.

One day soon after Sheridan came into her office and, like a bolt from the blue, announced, "I am being called to Washington for the duration, and Lisle Carter seems to have received word of it sooner than I. I'm assuming you will be willing to take full charge during my absence."

Jane stared at him in astonishment. She, Jane Grey, was being asked to be a full-fledged executive, not retired from the fight but placed in the commanding position.

"That's generous of you," Jane murmured. "Oh, you mentioned, Lisle Carter—"

"Yes, he telephoned to congratulate me and to assure me he'd give the business his closest personal attention during my absence."

"I was afraid of that."

"I'm asking a lot of you," he began seriously. "I can't understand why. I've so little to offer. . . . That's true," he insisted, when Jane made a gesture of denial.

He went on soberly, "I attempted to build up a business, based on an invention of my own. I find myself called, not to the active service I would have preferred, but to a desk job which may prove of more value, and I expect you, a comparative stranger, to take over the business and protect and sustain it"—he gave her a sudden gay glance—"through my time at the battle-front. . . . I've no illusions about such jobs as the one I'm called to fill," he added.

"I don't know how long I'll be in Washington. Positions such as mine change with the political breeze, you know. However, I shan't worry while I'm away."

Sinclair Offering Pre-War Gasoline

"Gasoline of better than pre-war quality has been started to local motorists from Sinclair Refineries according to a statement made today by J. C. Hartman, local agent for Sinclair Refining company. Mr. Hartman said: "Sinclair Refineries are shipping 75 octane Sinclair H-C housebrand gasoline and 80 octane premium grade. Wartime restrictions have limited housebrand to 70 octane and premium gasoline to 76 octane. Steps are also being taken to raise through blending operations the octane value of the gasoline now in storage so as to make available to the consumer pre-war quality immediately. It should take but a few days to restore pre-war quality in the gasoline. We are anxious to give the motorist this new quality merchandise as soon as possible."

Governor Praises Pioneers' Courage

Chartiers, Pa., Aug. 27 (AP)—Governor Edward Martin, speaking Sunday at the 170th anniversary service of the Hill Presbyterian church, asserted that "much of the world is in chaos and confusion because men followed the leadership of aggression."

He urged the same devotion to reconstruction as was used to win the war, adding that "initiative, hard work, unselfishness and sacrifice should mean even greater accomplishments in the days of peace."

The governor praised the courage and faith of pioneer worshippers who "traveled long distances over the raw frontier trails" and founded the little Hill church in Washington county in 1775.

CONTROLS ON BUS, TROLLEY SERVICE OFF

Washington, Aug. 27 (AP)—All wartime controls over local bus, trolley coach and streetcar service will be lifted August 31.

Announcing this Saturday the Office of Defense Transportation said it means withdrawal of its far reaching statement of policy on local passenger transportation, which had been in effect since April 1942.

The policy statement had called for a voluntary 12 point wartime program, including:

A system of staggered working hours; full use of streetcars and the elimination of all bus routes which duplicated streetcar service; diversion wherever possible of passengers from buses to streetcars; and fewer stops on transportation routes.

May Charter Buses

Except to serve war establishments, extension of bus routes and inauguration of new routes had been ruled out.

ODT Director J. Monroe Johnson said that while the wartime controls are being lifted, "it may be many months before equipment and manpower are sufficiently available to enable local transit service to return to prewar levels."

ODT also announced that after August 31 school bus authorities need not follow the voluntary wartime conservation practices which have been in effect.

This means revocation of regulations prohibiting use of charter buses for special service to athletic events.

Leaves From Diary Of War Correspondent

By TOM YARBROUGH
(Substituting for Hal Boyle)

Wiesbaden, Germany (AP)—Barter is rapidly gaining favor among Germans and American soldiers, too, as a means of doing business.

By practical standards money is becoming more and more "just paper" because so many people have so much of it. That's the sort of thing that keeps the black market flourishing.

Judging by extensive observation in Germany and unofficial reports from France, the black market in Germany has not reached anything near the proportions it has gained in France. But Germany is getting riper for it with each day nearer winter and with each additional thousand marks pumped into her financial system by American troops.

Realizing the penalties involved, the Germans are backward about suggesting payment for anything in cigarettes or food but, it is overwhelmingly apparent that they would prefer either one to money because, at their own officially-approved sources of supply, an amount of money can buy them only so much and no more.

Whenever you get a German shopkeeper to do some small job for you like repairing a watch band, he shrugs his shoulders and smiles wryly as he picks up his price in marks. Then he looks longingly at your burning cigarette with a look that tells more than words.

Almost any American pocketed at random will have his pockets full of money—perhaps ten times as much as he would think of carrying around with him back home—because he keeps on drawing it and has little to spend for it.

Dive for "Snipes"

Bartering involves unpleasant risks for Germans and Americans alike. Authorities stage surprise checkups from time to time and any German found with American goods have some tall explaining to do. The explanation often includes the name of the person from whom they got the goods in question.

In one recent dragnet survey, a German woman with 56 packages of American cigarettes put the finger squarely on the American army captain who supplied them.

On the whole, however, the Germans are not getting their hands on very many American cigarettes. That's proved by the way they dive for "snipes," no matter how short. It isn't uncommon to see a quite dignified old fellow dive suddenly for an inch-long cigarette stub.

Safe Burial Of Potatoes

Three important facts should be observed in burying the late crop of potatoes for home use or sale over winter. They are—Good drainage, adequate ventilation, and protection from freezing. To emphasize one of these requirements over the others may result in severe losses, while simple provisions to comply with all three guarantee safe storage comparable to conditions in an up-to-date cellar or special storage house.

It is seldom difficult to find a burial site where the soil is well drained and the water level remains relatively low throughout winter months. Of course, additional safety is provided by constructing surface ditches to carry all run-off water away speedily. In other words, it is necessary to avoid standing water in the immediate area surrounding the pit to avoid the extreme danger of seepage into the mound.

Ventilation is the principal factor usually overlooked by average gardeners, especially by beginners with this form of crop storage. The need is better understood by remembering that potatoes continue to give off excess moisture throughout the storage period and particularly for several weeks after burial. The same condition is true in cellar storage and for this reason narrow, slat-wall bins are recommended. For unless this released moisture is carried away quickly, potatoes become wet and decay starts and spreads rapidly.

One of the most practical ways to carry off surplus moisture from buried mounds of potatoes is to install a flue up through the center of the heap. First, dig a small circular depression in the soil and line it liberally with dry straw so the tubers do not come in contact with the earth. Construct a flue of four boards four to six inches wide and long enough to protrude through the tip of the mound after all protecting soil is added later. Set this flue upright in the center of the depression, its lower end resting on the straw. Pile sound potatoes around the flue to form a conical heap.

Experience indicates it is unwise to bury large crops in one heap. Two or more smaller pits are safer than one large pit, due to the same principal of ventilation employed in cellar storage. In other words, no tuber should be farther than three feet from the surface of a bin; likewise no tuber in the burial pit should be farther than three feet from the flue. However, if necessary to bury a large supply of potatoes in one pit, make the heap in the form of a ridge with a ventilating flue every four or five feet in the ridge.

CAPT. BULLEIT GETS NEW POST

Headquarters, 13th Air Force, Philippines (By Mail)—Captain Edward B. Bulleit, of Gettysburg, has been appointed executive officer of the veteran Lightning Lancers Squadron of Brigadier General Earl W. Barnes' 13th Air Force Fighter Command.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene V. Bulleit, College avenue, Gettysburg.

Captain Bulleit entered service February 9, 1941, and was assigned to overseas duty December 31, 1942. Before his recent appointment he was adjutant of his unit.

His Lightning Lancers squadron has blasted the Nips from Guadalcanal through the Philippines to the French Indo-China coast. He holds the American Defense ribbon, the Asiatic-Pacific campaign ribbon with eight battle stars and the Philippine Liberation ribbon with one star.

He was graduated from Gettysburg college in 1935, and Duke university, Durham, North Carolina, in 1938. Before entering service he was a partner with his father in the firm of Bulleit and Bulleit, attorneys-at-law.

Legislators

Bowles ruled last week that prices to the consumer will be held to the level of 1942 or near it.

But he already had ruled that the manufacturers could have increases in costs of labor and materials.

This puts the wholesaler and retailer in a squeeze. The cost to them is higher and, between them, they must absorb the difference, rather than pass it on to the consumer.

Some Restrictions

The "restricted" tag will remain on autos, fuel, farm and factory equipment until they are more plentiful here at home. Also on foods like fats, oils, rice and beans.

These other developments made week-end reconversion news:

Shoes—an end of rationing on October 1 was recommended by the National Shoe Retailers' association.

Dry cleaning—Laundries and dry cleaners will do a better job after August 31. WPB said they could have all they needed of carbon gladioli and lilyphium, tied with blue ribbon.

The bridesmaid was Mrs. Philip Hershfield, also of York, who wore an afternoon dress of white jersey with red flower print. She also carried a large fan of flowers, white gladioli and lilyphium, tied with white ribbon.

Odin B. Morse, IV, York, was the best man. Douglas Elliott, West Middle street, was the ring bearer.

A reception was held at the apartment immediately following the ceremony for forty guests. The mantel was decorated with lilies and rhododendron. Tall candelabra wound with ivy, contained lighted white candles. Miss Mary Jane Trew, Gettysburg, placed white satin ribbons from the candelabra to a doorway to form an aisle for the bride party, the ends forming a rosette of ribbons and ivy. Bows of zinnias decorated tables in the living room and hallway. The dining room table held the bride's cake surrounded by maiden hair fern topped with a miniature bride and groom. There were silver candelabra, with lighted candles.

Those who assisted at the reception were Miss Flo Parker, Pittsburg, Mrs. Joseph Green, Chester, Mrs. Thomas L. Cline, Jr., Mrs. John Elliot, Miss Mary Jane Trew, Miss Thelma Warman and Miss Helen Keith, all of Gettysburg.

The bride is a graduate of the York high school and attended

Wilson college in Chambersburg. Ensign Koch, is also a graduate of York high school entering service immediately after graduation. He graduated last Wednesday from Columbia university, New York in the Navy V-12 program. He received the rating of ensign. The couple will leave on Friday for Florida.

Ballot Printing Delayed by Court

Seranton, Pa., Aug. 27 (AP)—Chief Justice George W. Maxey of the Pennsylvania Supreme court has ordered printing of election ballots including names of American Labor party candidates held up pending a hearing in Philadelphia Friday.

Judge Maxey said last night he granted a rule enjoining the printing of such ballots following a request presented for the Democratic

RADIO PROGRAMS

New York, Aug. 27 (AP)—Return to the rather full pre-war schedules is not an immediate anticipation of New York's operating television program stations despite the ambitious plans being made for the future. Several factors are given as the reason.

There's the question of equipment. Needed replacements and additional apparatus such as cameras, tubes and the like are not expected to be adequately available until full civilian production is attained.
